

SCHOOL OF IRISH STUDIES

CONCORDIA UNIVERSITY, MONTREAL

ATTEND UNIVERSITY IN EXCITING MONTREAL AND PAY LOWER FEES THAN AT US COLLEGES!

Our multidisciplinary degree in Irish Studies develops valuable career skills, offers you an annual fee remission of $3,000 (off already low fees of about $7,500 U.S.), and provides funded opportunities to study in Ireland.

Our courses examine Irish history and culture as case studies so students learn about complex international issues.

Our students benefit from small classes, hands-on professors, a warm community spirit, and annual Irish cultural events in one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world.

Montreal is also one of the world's largest university cities, attracting thousands of U.S. students every year.

HEAR FROM TWO U.S. STUDENTS WHO ARE THRIVING IN OUR IRISH STUDIES PROGRAM!

SARAH MICHAUD from Boston -
A graduate of Fenway High School in Boston, Sarah Michaud chose our program because "Irish Studies is a welcoming community within Concordia, where the professors create a hands-on, interdisciplinary, friendly study environment."

As Sarah says, "Going to school in the U.S. means years of debt, but that's not the same in Canada. Montreal is an affordable world-class city, and my Irish Studies program costs only $5,300 U.S. a year.

As part of her degree, Sarah worked on a special project in Ireland last summer: "Travelling to Ireland was life-changing. Suddenly, all that I had learned about Irish culture and history became real when I landed in Dublin. After I graduate, I plan to return to Ireland to continue my education. I cannot thank Irish Studies at Concordia enough for making this happen"

KAYLEE KRAVETZ graduated from Rutland High School in Vermont and is doing a Double Major in Irish Studies and History at Concordia. She loves the wide range of multidisciplinary courses, the accessible professors, and the opportunities to become involved in Irish social events at the university and in the community.

"I love living in Montreal because there is so much more to do in a big city, it offers exposure to a second language without having to know French, and it is within driving distance for Vermont and New York State students at holiday time. The living expenses and tuition are so much lower than U.S. colleges, plus, Irish Studies gives you a generous fee remission grant! I am having a fabulous educational experience at very little cost and right next door to home!"
