ARTIST STATEMENT

My art is a journey of self-discovery and self-expression. It is the process by which I choose to explore my past.

I am intrigued by memory's subjective nature – what has been internally deemed worthy of remembering. Is it truly possible to re-visit one's past when the information stored has been inevitably distilled by time, dreams, love and fear?

My memories are both a source of pain and healing – my spring of interrogation and inspiration. My memories are what I tap into when creating my art.
